Key Note Presentation
Are You Indispensable?
Do You Want to Be?

Key Note Tour Guide: Angela Maiers
Audience: All Teachers Grade K-8,
Supervisors, Principals, Administrators

Answering this question gets at the heart of our work and the core principles of our mission as educators. In a time where the future is uncertain, our roles are less defined, and change is the norm; indispensability becomes our job security and a quality that solidifies our relevance as individuals and institutions.

People who make themselves indispensable are indispensable.

The challenge lies in making this tangible and actionable. Together we will explore a delicately-blended mixture of qualities and characteristics that make someone indispensable, and more importantly ensure that every student has the tools, tactics, and strategies to get them to the point where they are indispensable contributors and citizens in their world.

Every Teachers Dream Vacation! Time!

Your Tour Guides:

Catherine Kovarcik, Joan Troyano,
Carol Brelow and Linda Granat

Audience: All Teachers Grades K-8,
Supervisors, Principals

This is not your typical “workshop!” This trip offers the “gift of time” needed for creating learning centers, preparing for stations, making engaging games and activities across the content areas! Come get away with NJT2T as we assist you in cutting, gluing, laminating... and having lots of fun! So pack your scissors and join us for the wonderful opportunity to make-and-take. Get those sunglasses ready because your future is looking bright as you prepare for the upcoming new school year!

Angela Maiers is a dynamic and enthusiastic speaker who has devoted 20 years to the field of education. She currently works as an educational consultant dedicated and committed to helping teachers and districts reach their learning goals as we move into 21st century education.
